INTERACTIVE BROCHURE

Welcome to Leigh Park

Enjoy Georgian splendour in the heart of the Wiltshire countryside

The Best Western Leigh Park Hotel is a classical Georgian country house which stands in five acres of tranquil, landscaped gardens with its own walled garden and vineyard.

A wealth of history lies on the doorstep and the original house was a gift to Dudley, Earl of Leicester from Queen Elizabeth I in 1574; Dudley was her favourite courtier and it is possible that the Queen stayed in the house during the same year.

Westbury White Horse, a significant landmark, is clearly visible from many rooms and public areas within the hotel.

At Leigh Park we are proud to offer our guests 'A True Wiltshire Experience' by way of tasting our very own Leigh Park Wine, either as an aperitif or with dinner. The 600 Reichensteiner vines are grown in an acre of walled garden, and once the grapes are harvested, they are transported to a local vineyard near Bath where the attractive crisp, medium dry white wine is produced.

"Our caring and attentive staff are always on hand to offer the ultimate in hospitality"

The hotel is situated just one mile north of the pretty Saxon town of Bradford-on-Avon and only six miles from the Georgian Heritage City of Bath. Leigh Park is the ideal location for exploring the delights of the West Country and the beautiful Wiltshire countryside. Stonehenge, Longleat, and the National Trust village of Lacock are all on the doorstep, with many other attractions across the region, all within easy reach.
